A folding glass door is a type of door that consists primarily of glass panels hinged together in a way that allows them to fold accordion-style as the door is opened or closed. These doors are commonly used in interior and exterior spaces where maximizing natural light and providing a seamless transition between indoor and outdoor areas is desired.

The large glass panels of folding doors allow ample natural light to enter the interior spaces, creating a bright and airy atmosphere. Unlike traditional swinging doors, folding glass doors fold neatly to the side, requiring less clearance space when opened. This makes them ideal for areas where space is limited.

Folding glass doors are often used in spaces that lead to outdoor patios, decks, or gardens. When fully opened, they blur the boundary between indoor and outdoor areas, creating a seamless transition and enhancing the sense of openness.

Folding glass doors can add a modern and elegant touch to any space, enhancing its visual appeal. Depending on the design, folding glass doors can be opened partially to allow for ventilation while still maintaining a barrier against insects and debris.

Swing glass doors come in various designs, including single-panel doors and double doors. They can be made from different types of glass, such as clear, frosted, or tinted, to suit different preferences and privacy needs. Additionally, they may feature various types of hardware, such as handles, locks, and hinges, to match the overall style of the space and provide functionality.
